We combine a global perspective and in-depth industry knowledge to be a meaningful, value-added advisor to our private equity clients, their funds, and their portfolio companies with an array of service capabilities. We can help deliver on every critical aspect of the private equity cycle.

New fund launches
When launching a private equity fund, a long list of infrastructure tasks should be considered, including documenting procedures, identifying fund service providers, structuring the fund, developing legal documentation, registering the fund, creating your pitch deck to attract investors, and more. KPMG can help you manage these tasks, step-by-step, to get your fund up, running, and offering value to investors.

Hedge funds
Hedge fund managers and firms expect thoughtful solutions and practical, experienced and independent advice no matter where their organization operates or invests. At KPMG, our experienced professionals know what it takes for hedge funds to succeed in an increasingly complex world. They have the credentials, the curiosity, and the courage to explore alternative or new approaches that can add value.

Whether it’s providing audit, tax, or advisory services, our professionals deliver clear, pragmatic, and thoughtful advice and support to help enhance value, mitigate costs, and enhance returns.

Real estate investment
Real estate investors need a firm that can support them through every stage of the investment property and investment lifecycle, with experience working with all levels of stakeholders throughout the real estate industry. Whether your focus is local, national, regional, or global, KPMG has the right mix of experience to support and enhance your needs and ambitions.

Our knowledgeable real estate professionals provide you with informed perspectives and clear analysis, drawing on experience from a variety of backgrounds including accounting, tax, advisory, banking, regulation, and corporate finance.
Private credit
From evaluating credit instruments to dealing with distressed debt, private credit investment vehicles come with a range of requirements. KPMG has professionals well-versed in advising on and assisting in executing these requirements.

We actively seek ways to add value for your business in any market environment. You may be looking to transform your middle and back office for the current investing and technology environment, make sense of illiquid or esoteric assets, or manage inbound and outbound tax consequences for your investors.

In each instance, we focus on helping improve productivity, enhance efficiencies, and realize value across the enterprise.

Institutional
Institutional investors are challenged to make strategic decisions that satisfy organizational objectives and stakeholders’ expectations.

For example, while many institutional investors have rebalanced their portfolios with larger allocations of passive or less complex investments, others seek higher returns through direct investments. Many seek advice to adapt their internal capabilities and technology.

Some institutions wish to grow their global footprint with satellite offices to better source and execute transactions. To do so, they require advice to weigh the potential benefits and risks and implement their decisions.

KPMG professionals have the skills and knowledge to bring forward thoughtful approaches that address public and private sector institutional investors’ needs. Our global team combines deep technical experience, a breadth of commercial and business understanding, and local market insight, to deliver services and insights that meet both financial objectives and wider business goals.

Family offices
Every family and private entity is different. Their wealth and success may have accumulated in different ways. However, every group shares common goals—to retain and grow their wealth for generations and manage their tax obligations strategically and efficiently.

The KPMG Family Office and Private Client practice is specifically designed to help achieve each client’s and office’s specific objectives. Our tax advisers can help clients pay the correct amount of tax at the right time and in the right locations. They also provide multijurisdictional advice—support that’s more important than ever as people become more mobile, especially over generations, and move their capital and their businesses with them.
Helping achieve alternative investment clients’ objectives

Here are some objectives we can help you manage.

Taking advantage of strategic opportunities

Investment managers want to use the dry powder they’ve stored up to get the most impact possible for investors. Uncovering opportunities is how you do it. Ways to do it include identifying government initiatives, getting in front of industry trends, or focusing on select investment sectors such as ESG (as defined below).

Government initiatives

To help improve returns, investment managers can use federal, state, and local government incentives. Identifying potential opportunities is easier with data visualizations that help identify where potential opportunities lie. What-if scenarios can help investment managers play out the effects of different decisions, allowing managers to make more informed choices.

Industry-trend anticipation

Seeing trends before they hit gives investment managers first-mover advantage and the outsized returns that generally come with it. For example, the ways people work—and where they do it—are likely forever changed as more homes become offices. Having a sounding board able to provide additional perspective can prove especially useful to stay ahead of the curve.

Environmental, social, and governance (ESG) investing

Many investors want new investment choices that are sensitive to ESG issues. Institutional investors are driving demand for these types of funds; a KPMG survey found 85 percent of surveyed investors were interested in ESG-oriented hedge funds. More managers are incorporating ESG factors into investment decisions; our study found a near doubling in 2018 to 43 percent.

How can a fund attract investors’ respect—and capital? In our experience winning funds have solid track records, clear sector strategies, and distinctive value-creation stories.

Our professionals have the big-picture perspective, powered by data analytics, to help you identify investment and tax opportunities. In particular, our Deal Advisory and Mergers and Acquisitions (M&A) practitioners have deep experience helping clients manage deals from start to finish. They provide insights at deal speed to help clients buy, sell, finance, perform, and grow.

Our knowledgeable advisory professionals are adept at sharing perspective on growth opportunities. And our innovative approach to technology in this space stands out. We have an Asset Management Platform (AMP) that helps clients reimagine cost-effective ways to fulfill tax compliance, as well as planning. In addition, the talented professionals in KPMG Ignition use technology creatively to help solve for operational issues.

The pace of change in regulatory requirements, both in the U.S. and around the globe, is constant. Noncompliance can come at a steep cost, with fines and penalties, potential brand damage, and even the loss of ability to operate.

The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) has been more active in rolling out regulations. Many AI funds are regulated by the SEC, while many others invest in public companies, which are under SEC purview. AI funds and firms must be ready to comply with the regulations themselves, plus be able to support their clients’ compliance efforts.

At the same time, jurisdictions throughout the world are carefully reviewing companies to assure they’re getting their fair share of tax revenues. The global shifting to digital filing, which allows tax authorities to more easily identify inconsistencies and errors, makes accuracy and consistency critical.

Our Audit and Tax professionals have the technical and industry knowledge to help you assess regulatory requirements. They can ease the burden your staff faces, advise you as you make decisions, and support you in mitigating the risks of noncompliance.

When it comes to AI management, technology has two sides: Investment and Operational.

On the investment side, creating value for investors comes from uncovering areas poised for growth, as well as recognizing where previously hot trends have begun to cool.

On the operations side, value comes when firms can use technologies to improve efficiency and accuracy, identify potential opportunities to mitigate risk, and free up staff and resources for more strategic activities.
