Trends in the auto retail industry

Background

- KPMG polled 50+ auto retail executives regarding the state of the industry

Inventory management remains a key challenge, with companies working to maintain optimal inventory levels and manage costs. AI is being used to enhance customer interactions, marketing, inventory management, and financial operations.

Auto retail executives are focused on financial performance, with an emphasis on revenue growth. They are investing in dealership networks, customer experience, marketing and advertising, and technology infrastructure.

Companies are also assessing their involvement in ESG reporting and preparing for new reporting standards.
