Harness the power of Agentic AI

Google Agentspace Enterprise

The energy around Agentic AI is undeniable — but scaling it remains a major challenge.

According to the 2025 KPMG AI Pulse Survey, 63% of business leaders plan to deploy AI agents developed by trusted technology providers within the next year to drive growth and gain a competitive edge.

To capture the value of Agentic AI, organizations need to find the right partner to not only identify the right applications, but also to help scale these solutions effectively across the enterprise.

Top barriers to scaling Agentic AI include:

Monitoring and observability

Cost and ROI

Security and compliance

Data governance and control

Trust and transparency

Trusted AI solutions are mission-critical for organizations wanting to gain competitive advantage

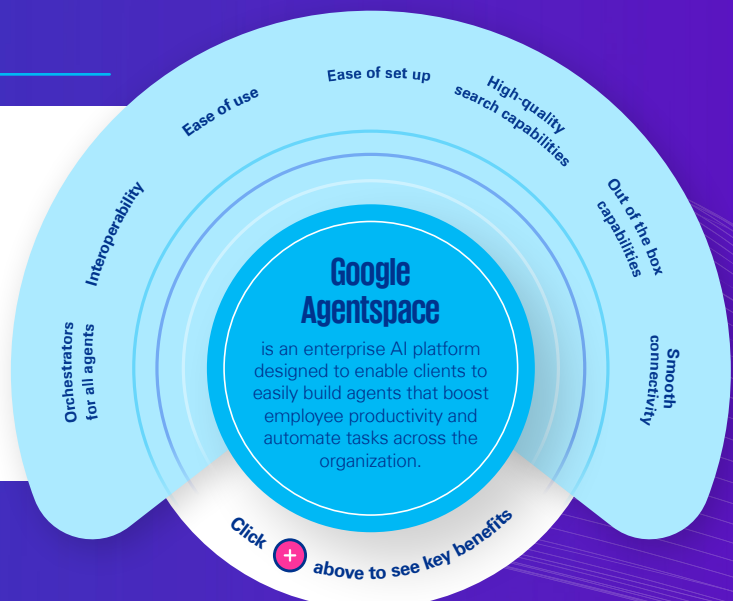

To help organizations address these challenges, KPMG LLP has expanded its AI alliance with Google Cloud to accelerate industry adoption of Agentspace. Together, we're supporting clients across industries to deploy Agentic AI at scale—building integrated, secure, and scalable AI platforms that enhance decision-making and drive productivity.

Furthermore, we bring the knowledge and experience needed to help clients address their challenges and drive change—delivering robust, secure, and scalable agentic solutions aligned with their business needs and investment priorities.

Importantly, KPMG has also deployed Google Agentspace within the firm, giving us first hand experience of the transformative value this out-of-the-box technology can deliver. This means that we understand nuances that the technology brings but also the transformative value it provides to the workforce, function and enterprise - empowering clients to capitalize on our established use cases.

Harness the power of Agentic AI - KPMG and Google Cloud

Agentspace allows organizations to deploy pre-configured AI agents that connect to enterprise data with ease, harness the value of Google-quality multimodal search, and utilize Gemini's advanced reasoning and LLM models to support complex tasks—while maintaining enterprise-grade security, privacy, and compliance.

Reimagine the future with Agentspace

KPMG is a recognized leader in AI/ML, data analytics, cybersecurity, and risk. We combine deep domain expertise with advanced accelerators and a proven methodology to help you reimagine end-to-end workflows—helps to ensure that agents are an integral part of the process.
